Bea, or Bunnygirl as she is known to her friends, is a delightful character who loves to help people.

When Bunnygirl comes across a shy boy named James, who lives in a treehouse in the park, she is determined to try and get to know him and introduce him to her friends. Maybe the movie night in the park, that Bunnygirl's friend Bear is planning, is the perfect time for James to be included? If only they could get the movie screen up!

But James is full surprises himself, and what he does for Bunnygirl and her friends leads to them all doing nice things for each other.

This is a great read for junior to middle primary students on the topics of thinking of others and making new friends.
